

What is Too Good To Go?

We're an environmental and social enterprise dedicated to tackling food waste by making restaurant food that would otherwise be thrown away available to eat. Through our innovative iPhone and Android app, users place orders to collect food at a restaurant's end of service reducing food waste, generating increased revenue for restaurants and helping protect the planet - all at the same time.

Why do we do this?

UK restaurants waste 600,000 tonnes of edible food each year - the equivalent of 84 Eiffel Towers. Most of this gets sent to landfill, where it rots and releases methane - a damaging greenhouse gas that's proven to be up to 100 times more potent than carbon dioxide. Further still, food security is becoming a prevalent and dangerous issue in the UK. A record one million emergency food packages were given to those in need last year. It just doesn't make sense, and we're determined to put a stop to it.

What's in it for you?

- Generate revenue on food you would otherwise throw away
- Reduce waste disposal costs
- Enjoy increased exposure to your brand - online and in person
- Attract new customers
- No contract, subscription fees or up-front costs
- Engage with your local community
- Help protect the environment
- The chance to participate in TGTG social initiatives:
  - Pay-it-forward schemes
  - Redistribution of unsold food surplus

Here's how it works...

Your surplus food is made available through the TGTG App. You control how many portions are available on any given day, or you can leave the quantity at a fixed amount.

Through the TGTG Restaurant App, keep track of orders made that day. Amend collection times if necessary or if you run out of food, you can refund customers directly.

Welcome TGTG customers at a time you choose. Hand them an eco-friendly TGTG box filled with delicious food & enjoy making money, protecting the planet & feeding bellies, not bins!
